Home Ownership is an Investment in Your Future

Motivated Sellers and Inventory

Now is an ideal time to buy, in most markets prices won't go any lower and there is an abundance of inventory. Inventory of homes for sale is at a 15-year high. There are many options out there for many buyers and many sellers who are willing to negotiate and work towards a win-win situation that works for both parties.

Go to www.REALTOR.com to see over 4 million active listings.

The Market is Getting Stronger and Every Market is Different

Remember that all real estate is local and that all markets are different. There are opportunities out there for a buyer if you're willing to look. The Homebuyer Tax Credit contained in the Housing and Economic Recovery Act of 2008 was updated in the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act of 2009. For 2009 purchasers the credit is $8000 and does not need to be repaid. The credit is available through December 1, 2009, meaning qualified buyers only have a short window of opportunity to take advantage of this special program.

A modest recovery for existing-home sales is expected in 2009. Pent-up demand, coupled with an abundance of safer mortgage products, will lead to near-term market improvements. The Emergency Economic Stability Act enacted on October 3, 2008 will help to improve credit markets and allow housing to lead the economic recovery.

FHA Loans Set to Increase

There are many choices for buyers looking for mortgages in this market. One option, FHA home loans, are a viable alternative for many first time buyers. The Federal Housing Administration (FHA) — which is part of HUD — insures the loan, so your lender can offer you a better deal, offering low down payments, low closing costs, and easy credit qualifying. FHA market share for home purchases is expected to rise significantly over the next 3 years, from an estimated 4% in 2007 to an estimated 35% in 2009.

Find out about FHA and other loans, go to www.Hud.gov/buying/loans and www.REALTOR.org and do a search for Consumer Literacy.

Benefits of Ownership

Owning a home is the American dream. It not only provides amazing tax benefits but it also provides shelter and security to families. Did you know that:

- 🏠 Dollar for dollar, the rate of return on an individual's cash down payment on a house is substantial? And that repeat buyers are able to put 19% more down on a new home due to appreciation?
- 🏠 Home owners move less often and are more likely to vote and volunteer time for political and charitable causes than renters?
- 🏠 When you own a home you can deduct the property taxes and mortgage interest from your income taxes?
- 🏠 The gains that you make on a primary residence that you've occupied for two years out of 5 can be tax free?

Housing Market Facts

NAR has created a new website www.HousingMarketFacts.com to help consumers find out the latest information about the housing market and the issues that affect you, information specifically for buyers, how to do more research, and learn more about the benefits of home ownership.

Mortgages are at Historically Low Rates

For buyers who qualify, mortgage rates are near historical lows. Rates are well under 6%. According to data provided by Freddie Mac, rates averaged 9.2% in the past 30 years.

Go to www.FreddieMac.com and look at the Primary Mortgage Market Survey® for more information on the latest rates. In addition, low interest rates, coupled with recent corrections, give people looking to upgrade a unique opportunity to take advantage of market conditions.

The Value of Your Investment

Despite some contrary media reports and some moderate losses in value in the short-term, home values long-term have and will continue to rise. Real estate is a long-term investment. Home values could fall in some years, though, on average over the past 30 years, the median price of existing homes has increased more than 6 percent every year. Thanks to the power of leverage, a homeowner's return on investment is even more impressive over time. Visit www.HousingMarketFacts.com to learn more.
